
Same complete-cutout population and paired block resamples for all windows; compare both panels together.